A HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

Samuel G. Wright, who is wanted in Alabama on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, was before Judge Aldridge in the district court yesterdy on a writ of habeas corpus to test the validity of the extradition papers issued by Governor Ireland in this case, one of the main points being that the party named in the warrent of extradition is not here in person to receive the prisoner, but is represented by a proxy. The court gave judgement remanding Wright to the Alabama officers and the prisoner took an appeal, to the court of appeals, wright in the meanwhile to remain in the custody of the sheriff of Dallas county pending the final disposition of his case. His alleged offense was committed a year ago in Talls working was the brook trout, lives in both streams and lakes, develops vermillon apots on his sides, rises readily to a fly, is far more vigorous and fully one third larger than ordinary brook trout of the same sage. Mr. Flynn will be on hand and will personally Flynn will be on hand and will personally superintend the issuing of the cards and colors. The cards give the colors worn by each driver (a cap printed in colors being opposite each driver's name), making it very conven ent for spectators and juages to distinguish each horse in the different races. Mr. Flynn is from the Turf, Field and Farm office, New York. This will be the only programme allowed on the ground. Merchants wishing to put advertisements on the programme can secure the place by leaving orders with A. L. Shepperd, secretary's office.

THE EXTRA TERMS OF COURT, The commissioners court was in session yesterday, when among other business the disputed matter of the county court terms disputed matter of the county court terms was settled in accordance with the opinion of the attorney-general, holding that there may be additional terms to those provided in the constitution, the court fixed upon four additional terms to be held respectfully on the first Mondays of February, May. August and November. The lawyers may or may not be well pleased at the additional means thus afforded for clearing the crowded docket, but the litigants will certainly feel relief at the prospect of shortening the proverbial "law's delays."

ADJUSTING THE LOSSES. Captain John E. "As we have never attempted to count them it will be impossible to say. They extend away up into the millions though. We shipped over three millions out of the ponds this year, and there seemed to be as any afterwire as halors. We have nearly every variety of the trout family and many hybrids."

"If you had seen me the last winter and spring, young mar, you might have thought differently," said the veteran.

"How is that? One would think, to look at you that sickness was something of which you know nothing."

"And so it was until last winter. I went down into Florida in the fall to see what kind of fish they had in that state and study their habits, and was attacked with malaria in its severest form, and when I came home I realized for the first time in my life, that I was sick. My symptoms were terrible. 'I had duil, aching pains in my head, limbs and around my back. My appetite was wholly gone, and I felt a lack of energy such as I had often heard described, but had never experienced. Anyone who has ever had a severe attack of malaria can appreciate my cordition. I went to bed and remained there all spring, and if ever there was a sick man I was and if ever there was a sick man I was on.'
"It seems hardly possible. How did you come to recover so completely?"

DALLAS TO THE FRONT-THE NEW OPERA-HOUSE THE FINEST IN THE

STATE. Dallas will commence on Monday next. when the new opera-house will for the first time be opened to the public. Too much praise cannot be accorded Contractor Brownlee for the very faithful manner in which he has carried out the ideas of the architect in the minor details which are often neglected. Dallas can now claim to have the most magnificent opera-house south of St. Louis. The celebrated Chicago Ideal Opera company have been engaged for the initial performances, and a more judicious selection could not have been made, as from al quarters of the state where this company have played, nothing but the highest testimonials have been received. The charming romantic opera "Iolanthe" will be the opera on the first night, to be followed by "Patience," "Pinafore" and the "Sorcerer," being the gems of Gilbert & Sallivan's reportoire. A Parrot With a Plous Wink.

In our cabin we had quite a menagerie of tame birds and animals, writes Moncure D. Conway, referring to his recent voyage from Honolulu to San Francisco. When I was spoken to by this parrot, while passing, I turned and closely inspected its face. It winked. There was something in its mere wink so pious and something so unctious in its voice that I leel confirmed in my suspicion that this is the penetent parrot. Without being in the least annoyed by anyone, and while seemingly looking out in a dreamy mood over the deep blue sea, this bird would suddenly break out in a voil, yof mariner's patols and oaths enough to turn the air purple around it. At length, when it was heard that some ladies had declared they would never again sail on a ship with such a bird, it was resolved that the parrot must be cured of his bad habits. And it was. Its oaths were invariably followed by a ducking. A large bucket of sait water was emptied on the poor bird's head, each splash accompanied with the re-Conway, referring to his recent voyage from salt water was emptied on the poor bird's head, each splash accompanied with the remark, "You've been swearing." Polly was thoroughly cured by this. Once, when the boat shipped a heavy sea which gave the reformed parrot a severe ducking, the bird, conscious of its own innocence, descended from its perch and repaired to the place of poulity. There it walked up and down before the deluged fowls, saying to them "You've' een swearing! You've been swearing!" ing!

Emerson's Yankee Mind. Emerson's mind was no less Yankee than Platonic. He exhibits, on the one hand, a sympathetic assimilation of idealism, on the other hand, an unconscious inherited realism. His nature was dual, one partitle Yankee part—balancing the other—the Platonic part—and thus it happens that he gives us the most of sweeping idealism without losing sight of the fact that we are men an 1 have to live as men on the earth, and that he indulges in the most revolutionary fancies without quitting the fundamental conditions of human life. As a man who has been a swimmer from his boyhood will turn a summersault into the sea, knowing—if he thinks of the matter at all—that his past training will keep him safe there, so Emerson throws himself into the speculations of idealism and the dreams of mysticism, secured by his inherited and developed Yankee sense from permanent extravagance or mad delusion.—[Fortnightly Review. sympathetic assimilation of idealism, on
